“It was the best thing I ever did and has given me a hobby that I have continued to work on at home.

Vannetta makes sure each student gets individual support and I can't wait to do another class (my third!).

I really can't speak highly enough about Vannetta and her classes.” (Helen)

Vannetta Seecharran School of Jewellery

Vannetta Seecharran School of Jewellery, located in Islington, one of London's most vibrant and creative neighbourhoods, is a place to discover your own creativity, learn a new skill and make stylish contemporary jewellery. Founded in 2006 by leading contemporary jeweller, author and educator Vannetta Seecharran, the school teaches professional jewellery making techniques in a way that is accessible to beginners and provides a foundation of skills that can be built upon for those who want to go further as jewellery makers. We believe that design is an integral part of the making process and so our students are taught how to gain inspiration and develop design ideas into original jewellery pieces.

At the School we offer classes for all abilities with durations ranging from one-day to three months. These are hands-on courses and from the beginning you will be creating amazing things.

The one-day classes are a great introduction to jewellery making and are ideal for beginners. The aim is for students to discover their creative potential and learn techniques that can be built upon on a future class.

The evening courses are offered at beginners, intermediate and advanced levels. These courses are designed to introduce students to a wide variety of skills and techniques. At the end of the course students are equipped with a solid foundation in design skills and technical knowledge that will enable them to continue working at home.
